THE DAIRYMEN IN NORWAY

Progression the Key Note

Music by Stearns' orchestra, opened the exercises in Norway Opera House, Tuesday evening. Four selections were given during the evening and the gathered company departed for home with the strains of music lingering with them. The players took them through many moods, gay, sedate, restful. Rev. B. C. Wentworth invoked Divine aid in the efforts for good in the meeting.

On the stage were seated Pres. L. E. McIntire of the Lewiston Stock Breeders' Association; Hon. Alfred S. Kimball, a prominent lawyer of Norway and on the Governor's Council; H. D. Smith, cashier of the Norway National Bank and Master of Norway Grange; Rev. B. C. Wentworth, pastor of the Norway Methodist church; Robert J. Aley of Orono, president of the University of Maine; Hon. C. S. Stetson of Greene, Master of Maine State Grange; Pres. W. G. Hunt of Readfield, of the Maine Dairymen's Association; Pres. W. K. Hamilton of South Waterford of the Maine Creamery Association.

Hon. Alfred S. Kimball welcomed the Association to Norway in behalf of the Norway Board of Trade and its citizens. He placed the town and its people at their disposal, that we would do everything in our power to make their short stay with us pleasant, and if there was anything omitted for their comfort they were asked to speak about it.

He referred to the improvements science and study have made along the farmer's way since he was a boy. The methods and tools and machinery used in farm work. The telephone, mail delivery, power and conveniences that enter now so largely into farming.

Oxford Beans extended a glad hand. Although in the extreme Western part of the State and away from the large railroad centers he was glad the Association considered Oxford County and Norway wanted to have their meeting in this rich dairy part of Maine.

H. D. Smith rejoiced that the Grange welcome came after Mr. Kimball's in that he would not have to voice the eloquence of the citizens' welcome, only endorse it. As Master of the large and progressive Norway Grange he secured the dairy branch of Maine agriculture to have glad they were to have them with us.

The advantage of the meeting to gather of the foremost minds in these organizations of the fundamental industry is one of the greatest means for talking over, illustrating and discussing ways for improvement and advancement. Norway Grange would do everything in their power to make this meeting a profit and success. The rugged hills of old Oxford present views of the artist could transport to canvas. He hoped our guests might have time to their homes in their minds some of these views.

Hon. C. S. Stetson responded to these kindly welcomes. He had headed a large organization that numbers about 60,000 people. For the years since he has been Master of the Maine Grange he has done everything in his power to make a unit, as far as the good of the tillers of the soil goes, as closely as possible of all the different organizations which in Agriculture pursue the same end. The Maine Dairy Association were glad to be in Norway.

Education was the subject of Prof. Aley's address. He spoke as a teacher and instructed his large audience. Three things, disease, poverty and education, are perceptibly lessened by education. The right way is that the State should own the schoolhouses and school property. The schoolhouse should be of the best, well ventilated, well lighted, and free from environment as an object lesson for better things. Good things are contagious as well as bad and may be caught as readily as small pox and others of kindred nature.

Education makes a larger capacity for the accomplishment of work, not as one thought, but as a straight line, but is flexible. It is not a straight line, but is flexible. Three or more straight courses in different directions to different things may go on at the same time if the mind is broadened by concentration.

A man who has always done a thing can by education adapt himself to changed circumstances. Like the merchant who has conducted business in a small way in a small town may by a sudden growth of the town find himself in a large town with modern competition. He may adapt himself to the changed conditions, put in modern goods and fit up an up-to-date store, advertise and make a success, or "do as he has always done, not advertise because everyone knows," has he not been in business forty years?" and get crowded to the wall.

Congregational Fair.

The Fair which was held at the vestry of the Congregational church, Tuesday afternoon and evening and Wednesday afternoon proved a success in every way. There was an unusually large number out.

The booths were prettily decorated in white with clusters of pink and white orchids and green leaves. Each booth had an overhead framework handsomely decorated with orchids and a variety of white tissue paper ornaments.

The candy table which was in charge of the young ladies of Mrs. B. S. Rideout's class proved to be a very popular resort and although the young ladies provided a large assortment of confectionary, before the evening was over, it was nearly all sold and converted into cash.

The food table which was in charge of Mrs. John Shepard, Mrs. F. N. Barker, Mrs. Fred Stone, Mrs. Fred Hosmer, Emma Stone and Mrs. Horace Oxcard was well patronized Tuesday afternoon, in fact, so well that the table was not in evidence during the evening.

The fancy work table occupied the center of the vestry and at the opening of the fair was heaped with a multitude of fancy articles of every description. During the afternoon and evening the table was well stocked with a good layer of articles for the evening trade.

The ladies in charge of the table were Mrs. H. P. Jones, Mrs. Fred Cummings, Mrs. A. J. Stearns, Mrs. E. R. Andrews, Mrs. G. P. Lasse and Mrs. L. H. Cushman.

The apron table was in charge of Mrs. C. N. Tubbs, Mrs. Ryerson, Mrs. G. W. Locke, Mrs. A. F. Andrews, Lucy Hall, Mrs. Stearns, and Clara Smith. This table was well patronized. There was a good variety.

The mystery booth, in charge of the young ladies of Mrs. A. J. Stearns' class was the center of attraction among the young people. This booth was in the form of a fishing pond where a variety of nick-nacks were secured on the end of the line.

The ladies' tea room was a very busy place Tuesday evening. The small vestry was equipped as a lunch room and was decorated with white tissue streamers, bells and orchids. Four small tables were set in the room where ice cream, cake, cocoa, coffee and Welsh rarebit were served. At the rear of the vestry was a large table where chafing dish parties were made. This was in charge of Ethel Baird, Fannie Boynton, Elizabeth Ross, Sadie Kimball, Emma Gough, Vivian Dingley and Florence Whitman.

The tea room was in charge of Mrs. H. J. Bangs, Mrs. E. N. Srett, Nellie Andrews and Mrs. Frank Brett.

Tuesday evening the following program was given: Piano duet, Howard and Eddie Chubb; Piano solo, Howard and Eddie Chubb; Violin obbligato, Marie Barker; Piano solo, Howard and Eddie Chubb; Piano solo, Howard and Eddie Chubb; Piano solo, Howard and Eddie Chubb.

The concert was in the church. Mrs. H. L. Horne and Mrs. A. L. Fogg gave organ duets, La Fille du Regiment, by Donizetti and Lullstiel, also encores. Ruby Clark, soloist, sang "Will o' the Willow." Sprague and Welch sang "Y. U. Bond." Nymphs and Fawns, Bemborg, Miss Clark kindly responded to repeated encores. She has a very sweet, pleasing voice. The selection to which she played her own accompaniment was a favorite number. Mrs. Fogg was her piano accompanist.

Mabel DeShon of Portland was the reader and though this was her first appearance here, she captured her audience from her first number. Her selections were a monologue, "Tabby Talks at the Sewing Circle," a Leap Year Episode; a story, "Baking the Broom and Puddings," Monologue, "The Number," Mammy's Pickin'ny. Every number was enjoyed.

Killed by Caving Sand Bank.

James A. Milligan, aged about 60 years, of Augusta was killed at South Paris, when a sand bank upon which he was working caved in. Milligan had been working on the bank with a team for some time. When a wagon load had been dug the teamster started with the load for the dam which is being built at the mill. It was while he was gone that the cave-in occurred.

Upon his return he dug, and the body was recovered under ten feet of earth but life was extinct. The body was sent to Augusta, where Milligan has a sister and two children.

He was at work for Frank Rayner of Augusta, who has a sub-contract in the construction of the dam by C. E. Hoxie, Coroner Wheeler of South Paris was away at the time and so Coroner Bassett of Norway was called. He deemed an inquest unnecessary and the body was turned over to Grace Thayer, undertaker.

Mr. Milligan was digging sand at the sand pit for the concrete which was obtained from the high bank on the east side of the river at the lower part of the yard below the lower station about 10 rods from the dam and out of sight around the bend of the bank. The accident occurred at eight o'clock Sunday morning. John Frederick, the driver of the team, had been hauling sand and went up to the works with a load, leaving Milligan alone at the pit. When Frederick returned he found the slide had come down the bank and Milligan was gone. Frederick ran for help and he was quickly removed from the bank.

A physician was summoned and arrived by the time his head was uncovered, but he was dead.

The place where he was working up to the top of the bank was about 25 feet and the sand came down with the top of the bank with pine stumps and bushes.

Mr. Milligan was a carpenter until about ten years ago when his eyesight failed him. Previous to that he had been engaged by J. M. Murch at a number of different times as a carpenter. Since then he has worked at various jobs such as he could get.

There are many Incidental Benefits in having a Checking Account in

THIS STRONG NATIONAL BANK

It enables you to keep track of your money matters in a systematic way. The entries in your bank book show how much money you have received, and the stubs of your check book and also the cancelled checks returned by the Bank show how much you have paid out and where the money went. In this way this Bank virtually keeps your books for you, and, we may add, few individuals ever succeed in keeping accurate account of their finances in any other way.

The cancelled checks, returned by the Bank each month, are legal receipts for your payments. If you pay in cash you will often fail to get receipts but paying by check automatically gives you an indisputable receipt for every payment and in a form very easy to file for future reference. You also avoid asking for a receipt, which is sometimes, though wrongfully, looked upon as evidence of personal suspicion.

In view of all these advantages can you ignore the need of a bank account for yourself?

Nothing definite has as yet been decided as to the post-office at Sandy Creek. As is known the present postmaster, L. S. Ingalls, tendered his resignation to take effect as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made. No other arrangements have been made and Mr. Ingalls is still holding down the job as a matter of accommodation. His present intention, however, is not to continue in the office, although of course there is the possibility that he may be prevailed upon to continue rather than to have the Creek lose the office.

He was born in Saco in December, 1826, came to South Hiram in 1835 with his parents, Capt. Seth and Hannah Spring. He was a diligent farmer until late in life, ill health forcing him to cease. Society Won't Tolerate Catarrh.

Get Rid of It!
There is one sure way to banish catarrh and along with it the disgusting symptoms such as hawking, snuffing and spitting.

Breathe HYOMEL, that's all you've got to do. Breathe it a few minutes every day. Breathe it deep into the lungs and see how quickly the sore, run-ridden membrane will clear up and inflammation vanish.

HYOMEL is pure antiseptic air, it does not contain morphine, cocaine or other habit-forming drugs. It is made from Australian eucalyptus and other antiseptics, and it is rigidly guaranteed for catarrh, asthma, croup, bronchitis, coughs and colds. Complete outfit (inhaler and bottle) $1.00. Separate bottles, if afterwards needed, 50 cents at Noyes Drug Store and druggists everywhere.

Misfit Presents.

The Christmas time has come once more
With all its joy and cheer;
On every side, in every home,
The Christmas gifts appear;
From bulging stockings everywhere
The prizes are pulled out;
Ah, listen to the sounds of joy,
The jubilating shout.

Behold the festive bachelor,
Enshrouded in his bloom;
He gets a present with the rest,
He finds it in his room;
He opens up the packages there—
Alas, unhappy man!
Some friend has sent the lonely wretch
A brand new frying pan.

The minister, so dignified,
He gets some poker chips;
He also gets a little fur
From which to take some naps;
The temperance man, he gets a case
Of extra dry champagne;
The legless wonder gets some shoes,
The earnest man a cane.

The babes in arms get sleds and skates,
The boys get pretty dolls,
The little girls get boots and tools
And while the rubber balls;
The deaf man gets a graphophone,
The blind man gets some spoken,
And if a hobo gets a gift
It is a book of checks.

The maiden lady, all alone,
With none to share her joys,
Gets lots and lots of foolish things,
Like jangling jacks and toys;
The barkeep gets a Bible and
Some curling irons, too;
The teamster gets some mittened mats,
The tightwad gets some glue.

The college man with bulging brows
Finds primers in his socks,
The aged fellow in the dumps
Gets painted building blocks;
The pretty maiden in her teens,
Who dotes on endless loves,
Will find within her stocking tucked
Some eight-ounce boxing gloves.

The man who cannot read, gets books,
And he who does not smoke
Will get a lot of fine cigars—
And that's no idle joke.
The baldhead gets a comb and brush,
The sinner gets a drum—
And this is why at Christmas time
Some people look so glum.

FYREBURG.

A Stretch of Bad Road.
Probably the worst piece of road in the State is a half mile stretch of road between Fyrebure and Bridgton, along the main line of travel between Poland Springs and the White Mountains. The municipal officers of the town of Fyre-burg are desirous of doing whatever lies within their means to better the condition of this bad piece of road and for that reason they asked State Highway Commissioner Hardison to come to Fyrebure, inspect the road and advise them as to what could be done for its improvement.

Commissioner Hardison visited the road in question last week, and thoroughly investigated conditions there. He found that the road is flooded in times of high water by the Saco river and that in extreme high water it is impassable for a few days. The water cannot be prevented from overflowing the road at times by any reasonable expenditure of money for its betterment. In extreme high water the road is covered three feet deep and a swift current prevails.
When the waters subside, the road is left muddy and in bad shape generally.
Commissioner Hardison recommends the use of stone and a surfacing material, giving the road as perfect a grade as possible, so that when the water subsides it will drain thoroughly and quickly. The drainage problem can easily be worked out in this way, as the water falls into depressions and ravines that extend across the road.

"If that the road can be made safe," said Mr. Hardison, "as these extreme freshet conditions only prevail in the early spring and late in the fall,"
The amount of travel that passes over this road is shown from the fact that over 5000 automobiles went across this stretch of road during the past season.

WEST FRYEBURG.

Maine at Washington.
Mrs. Etta H. Osgood's many friends will be interested to know she is pleasantly located for the winter in Seattle, Wash., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Farris Haley, the latter, Mrs. Osgood's brother, well known former residents of West Fryeburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Haley are enjoying their new home, now in the finishing stage, immensely and seem to have acquired the enthusiasm that arrests and holds those who drop into the enchantment of the Pacific regions.

Seattle has a New England club with a membership of 300 and they call Washington, "The Seventh New England State." Leonard F. Dearborn, president of the club, estimates that there are 16,000 former residents of New England in Seattle. Other estimates claim that Mr. Dearborn's estimate is too low and that a conservative guess would place the number at nearer 25,000.

This is from a clipping from a Seattle newspaper of recent date and may interest Maine people.

Guy Eastman is adding a commodious house to his already fine block of buildings.

Mrs. S. W. Hill of Whitefield, N. H., is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. J. T. Boutwell.

The West Fryeburg cemetery has been improved by the erection of a neat wire fence around the sides.

During the summer vacation an artesian well was driven in the meadow opposite the schoolhouse in this district for the use of the pupils. Mr. Coleman superintended the work and the school, at present the largest for many years, is said to be one of the largest in town, is supplied with good water, though some families in the vicinity are suffering from long continued drought.

Dean Andrews, for some years past a resident of Peabody, Mass., died there last week and was brought Saturday, Dec. 2, for burial in the Henry Andrews lot adjoining the local cemetery. Among residents of Fryeburg and environs Mr. Andrews was well known and highly esteemed. For several years he resided in Sweden and served as postmaster but a few years ago retired, removing to Peabody, Mass. He was a frequent summer guest of relatives in Lovell, Sweden and Fryeburg and was anticipating removal to a permanent home in Fryeburg village in the fall. During the greater part of the present year Mr. Andrews' health had been failing and as was feared his advanced age operated against recovery. He made his home with his sister, Callista Andrews of Peabody.

NORWAY AND VICINITY

Thanksgiving Services.
The union Thanksgiving services held at the Congregational church, Wednesday evening, were not largely attended.
Following the praise service, Rev. R. J.
Bruce read the Governor's proclamation and Rev. M. C. Ward read the President's proclamation.

Mr. Bruce spoke on the patriarch, giving a brief sketch of the work and characteristics of the lives of some of the men who have been termed the patriarchs of the olden times, and showed throughout his address the way in which the patriarchs or the heads of the families had accomplished much for the betterment of their people which led down through the centuries to the time of the Pilgrims.

Mr. Ward spoke on the Pilgrims, the difficulties they encountered, the manner in which they overcame the hardships and privations during those early years and emphasized the sterling qualities in their character and the love, devotion and appreciation for all the blessings vouchsafed.

Both urged that each and all should make their lives a life of usefulness in this 20th century, when there is so much to be thankful for, also to cultivate the art of appreciation for all the blessings that are bestowed, as men, as a people and as a nation.

H. L. Horne rendered a very pretty selection, accompanied by Mrs. Horne.

One of the pleasant events of the season took place Thursday evening at the Annual Thanksgiving Ball was given under the auspices of Panneseawassess

At eight-thirty o'clock, to the strains of music furnished by Stearns' orchestra about 30 couples fell in line for the grand march which was led by floor manager, Homer D. Tibbs and sister, Dorothy Tibbs. An excellent order of dances followed. Intermission came at about midnight when ice cream and cake was served. Dancing was resumed and long in the wee small hours of the morning the last dance was enjoyed and the party broke up.

A pretty order of dances containing 16 numbers with music and cake was served. The cover contained the emblems of the order in red, blue and yellow, with the castles, spears and sword in colors.
The orders were fastened with handsome red cords with pencils.

The floor manager was Homer D.
Tibbs, assisted by W. H. D. Smith, E.
Richardson, E. J. Sharon and H. C.
Everett, with Ernest Shaw of Paris; W.
E. Kenney of South Paris; H. L. Davis

de chine. Following the ceremony and congratulations, refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Luck have numerous friends among the young people.

Birthday Pleasantly Remembered.

Mrs. Miriam Libby, Pleasant street, was made very happy on her 80th birthday and Thanksgiving.
Many of her friends and neighbors gave her a post card shower of about seventy beautiful cards with best wishes and congratulations. Many of her old neighbors called and presented her with fruit, flowers, birthday cake and a very fine Thanksgiving dinner. It was a great surprise and gave her a great deal of pleasure. It certainly was a red letter day for her.

The kindness of her friends is fully appreciated and she is very thankful for all who were so thoughtful and gave her so much pleasure on her 80th birthday. One card she received gave her a great deal of pleasure. It was a photo of her first great-grandchild, Marion Donohue, five months old, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gray of Auburn.
Mrs. Libby has been a helpless invalid for the past seven years, but has always been very patient and cheerful to a wonderful degree for one in her condition.

a resident of Gorham, N. H., died at his

Fred attended the public schools of Gorham during his young manhood and finished his school days with a high standing. He was a member of the Eastman's business college at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Returning to Gorham he commenced work in the old Grand Trunk office, but at the age of 18 went into the drug store of Dr. Henry Martineau. Having passed the state pharmacy board, in 1886 he bought out his employer and has conducted the store since up to the time of his death.

The Industrial Journal says:—The enterprising town of Norway contains many flourishing industries, but few more unique than the lapidary establishment of Robert F. Bickford. Mr. Bickford is putting up a building 14x20
to contain a workroom and a small office.
Ample light is secured by eight large windows. Increase of business from all over the United States has warranted the outlay on the new building.

Oxford County's Grand Opera Singer.

Miss Salar, Oxford county's Grand Opera artist, makes her first concert appearance in her native village, Thursday evening this week. Minnie Plummer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Plummer of South Paris. As a child she showed marked musical ability and was frequently heard in entertainments and musical events in South Paris and Norway. She received instruction upon the organ and piano from Kotschmar of Portland and MacDowell and Samuel B.
Whitney of Boston. She also studied voice culture. She was organist at Congress Square church in Portland and accompanyist for the Hayden chorus. She taught music in Portland and in other places.

In Italy she studied instrumental music under Gurliant, and vocal work with Trabaldello. Because of her contralto voice of remarkable power her Italian masters urged her to devote her time to Grand Opera.

She returned to her home land and after two years spent in teaching she again went abroad and studied with Signor Vanuchichini, Madam Marchesi,
Mr. Paul Lheric and M. Edmund Duvernat. Then it was discovered that her voice was not contralto, but a "Falcon"
and she bravely struggled with her task to study new roles.

She speaks Italian, French and German fluently. Soon after her arrival in France she was surrounded by delightful friends and home influences and lived in a quiet old abbey of Poissy with Madam Theo-pile Franceschi whose loving kindness to Salar, whom she regarded as a daughter, was very much appreciated by the Maine girl.

Upon arriving in Paris a celebrated artist heard Salar's voice and requested her to sing in a concert with him. There was a little discussion regarding her name for the program and on the evening of the concert she discovered the name "Salar" preceding her numbers.

The operas in which Salar has been most successful are: "Aida," Verdi;
"Les Huguenots," Meyerbeer; "Tancrède," Wagner; "Lohengrin," Wagner; "Faust," Gounod; "La Juive," Meyerbeer; "La Tosca," Puccini; "L'Africaine," Meyerbeer; "Il Ballo in Maschera," Verdi; "Cavalleria Rusticana," Mascagni; "Sigurd," Reyser; "Le Châlied," Rossini; "Heroldiana," Massenet; "La Fiancee de la Mer," Blox; "Corelle," Catalani; "Die Walkure," Wagner; "Il Trovatore," Verdi; "Robert
le Diable," Meyerbeer; "Marie Madelaine," Massenet; "Lacoste," Gluck;
"Don Giovanni," Mozart.

November 19th, 1910, she arrived in New Orleans on the steamship Canadian of the Leyland Line with the French Opera Troupe secured by the Impresario, Mr. J. V. N. Wilson of the New Orleans
French opera season which opened Nov.
22. It comprised 130 singers and orchestra with Salar as prima donna.
Her arrival was the event of the season for it was the first time in the history of the French opera that the leading soprano was a native born American.

At last after an absence of ten years she returned to her parents and her native home. Her return is a pleasure to her friends and seemingly to herself.
Her friends have been anxious to hear her sing and she has consented.

The Growl of the Oxford Bear.

The Kennebec Journal says:—Those "Oxford Bears" have accomplished wonders in bridging that yawning chasm between producer and consumer. What Never heard of the work of that little fruit growers' association in Buckfield?

Well! It's an organization composed of nine young men with thoroughly modern ideas. One of the number is agreed to handle all the fruit of the whole, the result being that he has paid the members net from 75 cents to $1.25 per barrel more than any of the buyers are paying. Here is seen the result of doing business in harmony with nature.
The boys of Buckfield have done in Buckfield might be in every town in the State.

If the farmers are satisfied to get thirty-five cents out of what the consumer pays then there is nothing to be said. If they want six or seven which is their just proportion, then they must get in line to protect themselves from united effort and stop bidding against each in the market.

Today everyone who goes to the center with his produce unless he chances to have a regular line of customers, asks
"What will you pay?" and takes what the dealer is willing to give. We know there is an understanding which checks all competitors in buying, and buyers take the one for the day's prices from the commission house. The only way to be independent is by stopping all contention and letting an agent sell the product and demand a fair price.

What the boys of Buckfield have done others may do and with just as good results. If these organizations do not multiply it will simply demonstrate that men are content with their little fraction of thirty-five cents out of the consumer's dollar, and propose to continue to go it alone.

Scenic Railway on Mount Washington.

The Boston & Maine engineers, who have been engaged since early summer in locating the line of the proposed scenic railroad from the base to the summit of Mount Washington, completed the work on Friday, and returned to Boston.

The task has been long and arduous during the last stages of the work by reason of the weather conditions on the mountain, but everything is in shape to permit the work of construction to commence early next spring.

The line will be 16 miles in length, and will circle the summit three times before it reaches the apex on which the new hotel of granite and concrete is to be constructed.

It is consensus of opinion among railroad men that the road will be built as planned, and that it and the new hotel will be completed within the next two years.

In the theatres in France orchestras are as a rule as small as with us and there is no extra music, it being considered unnecessary. The expectant audience is apprised that the play is about to begin by several loud-taps on the stage by a stout-stick. Then the hum of conversation ceases and a moment later the scene is disclosed.

Fun With Pop Corn.
For children there is nothing more amusing than a pop corn party. A small folks invited are requested to bring their play dresses, as there is apt to be more or less "mud" before the entainment is over. The kitchen supply with an open fireplace makes an ideal place. Lacking that the stove can be used. The poppers should be heated before the corn is added, and then corn slightly sprinkled with water heated gradually until the kernels are are all burst.

When a quantity is prepared for mediate use, some of the older ones are very delicious if prepared just right. To make the balls, place one pound granulated sugar in a saucepan, add half a cup of water, half a teaspoon of cream of tartar, and half a cup of butter, and stir until the syrup spreads, stirring constantly to prevent burning. Place some of the pop corn in a deep dish, pour the candied syrup over the corn slowly, stirring so that every grain will be covered. While still warm press into modest sized balls and roll in colored or sugar, then set aside to cool.

The molasses corn cakes are made by boiling two cups of molasses and cup of butter until a lump will Place some of the popped corn in a deep dish, pour the candied syrup over the corn slowly, stirring the corn so that every grain will be coated. While still warm, press into medium-sized balls and roll in colored or white sugar, then set aside to cool.

The molasses corn cakes are made by boiling two cups of molasses and half cup of butter until a lump will harden when dropped in cold water. Shot for a Deer.

Virgil Cole of Andover was mistaken for a deer late Tuesday afternoon last week. He was dragging a deer to his camp in Black Brook, and while waiting for his partner, Steve Marston, to come to his aid he was fired at by a hunter. The first shot missed and Cole shouted but the second shot hit him in the back, two inches above the heart, puncturing his lung and breaking a rib. He bled freely before reaching Andover, where he was taken by train.

It is supposed that the man who fired the shot at him was one of two men staying at Echo camp, Black Brook, 10 miles from Andover. Both Cole and Marston are young, not yet 20, and belong in Andover.

Daniel P. Toothaker and William Burns of Oxford were given a hearing, Friday morning, in the Rumford municipal court charged with negligence in shooting while on a hunting trip. They waived examination and each man furnished bonds in the amount of $1000 for his appearance at the March term of the supreme court.

These are the men, who, it is alleged, shot and wounded Virgil Cole at Andover. Mr. Cole's condition is still considered critical. These men are both well known citizens of Oxford. Mr. Toothaker being a middle aged man, while Mr. Burns is younger.

At the time of the shooting, so it is alleged, Cole was dragging a deer, which he had just shot, out of the woods. Toothaker and Burns saw the white tail of the animal as he was dragged over a log, and thinking him to be a deer, and traveling, both fired, and it is not known which shot injured Mr. Cole.

To Tell a Woman's Age, Feel Her Pulse.

"Neither coyness nor cosmetics switches by way of annex to her 'crowning glory,' nor yet the thirty-third degree in the Ananias Order will avail to hide a woman's real age from one bent on discovering that point. Her Achilles heel will be her wrist, and for or triad, by secretly counting her pulse, on what, by secret pretext, can tell whether she be really young or not," is the contention of an eminent physician.

He added, "The pulse of a young adult beats from 70 to 80 times a minute, a young woman's about eight times more than a young man's, and the pulse of an adult past youth but not yet really old beats fewer a minute."

If there is a Divinity that shapes our ends, And our life is under such divine control, Why struggle we on to make amends, Or take anxious thought for the life of the soul?—H. Howe.

Why Farmers are Taken In.

If one were to form his judgement from reading the daily papers describing the methods by which farmers are taken in by swindlers and fakers, he might come to one conclusion that farm people are a lot of rather "weak sisters." This gullibility is not a weakness of farmers alone. It is unfortunately a weakness of human nature. The city-folks are taken in quite as frequently as the farmers.

In fact, we have known them to bite quite as greedily at the bare hook as any granger who steps high because he is accustomed to walking over clouds. Some millions of hard-earned dollars have been taken from poor and rich both in the city and in the country, by smooth, well dressed, plausible sharks who made them believe that they could put them at once on an easy way to get rich. The gambling instinct, the vice of savages, had not yet been bred out of the human family.

Farmers, however, are subject to some temptations which do not trouble the city man. The man in the city is accustomed to seeing people in great numbers; he is not hungry for society. The farmer, even in well settled country, lives a somewhat lonely life. He takes kindly to the man of good address, pleasant manner and wide information; and will give him his dinner and an hour of his time, simply for company's sake.

Hence the man who takes in the farmer is usually a smooth chameleon, whose very personality is pleasant conversation and smooth words, to which the farmer is less accustomed, commend him to the lonely man of the farm. He can not see how this man can be anything but a genial, guileless, benevolent gentleman.

Another reason is that the farmer, knowing himself to be at least reasonably honest, and his neighbors also, is loath to believe that the stranger whom he has invited to his table and to his front porch can be anything else than honest.

The farmer is accustomed to the moral weakness of his neighbors; for all farmers are not as honest as they might be. Some of them will devalue at times for quick money, or for a small profit, and usually in little things. This is manifestly not the case with the little tricks that his neighbor will do. He brings a new brand of dishonesty to which the farmer is not accustomed.

It comes in the guise of benevolence of helpfulness, and thus attacks the farmer on his weak and unguarded side. This idea of helping a neighbor to get rich quickly, without any effort or spinning, and knowing him how he can gather in the unearned increment and provide a competence for his family, should be taken away, rather appeals to the farmer when properly presented by the right kind of a man for that work. His reading has taught him that many a man has been enriched beyond his dreams of advance by such means.

Then, why not he? And he buys a few shares in a gold mine, a silver mine or an oil well, an assortment of apple or peach trees, ever-bearing raspberries, strawberries, or signs a receipt for his dinner, which turns out to be a note on the bank. He does this partly because the gambling instinct has been bred out of him, partly because it is pleasant to have company; and partly because the salesman is such a very pleasant gentleman that it is really a pleasure to be taken in by him.

The way to avoid all this is to buy your fruit trees, vines and bushes from the nearest reliable nurseryman, who can give you advice about planting which is worth more than the price of the trees; to refuse to buy any land until you have an opportunity of seeing it yourself, after acquainting yourself with the average rainfall for as many years back as it is possible to secure the records; and to sign no paper or memorandum of any kind when presented to you by a stranger.

Get out of your way for the average man to get rich quick, and remember that in most cases for the few who do obtain wealth without toiling or spinning it proves to be a curse instead of a blessing.

Trapping Skunk and Civet.

The skunk and civet cat become prime first and best food for the spring. These two animals, therefore, should be trapped soonest, and as a rule not later than the middle of March. However, no definite rule can be given. In the North they can be trapped longer than in the South, of course.

Both animals are easy to take. They seem to have no fear whatever of man or traps, generally speaking. Sets do not need to be covered for them, yet it is a good plan to do so.

Along old hedges, near straw piles in weed patches, etc., are ideal places to look for the animals. Both prefer rugged, stony country. The skunk has a more valuable pelt than the civet. Usually a number of these fur bearers can be taken in one place.

The simple way to take either is to find a den and make a set at the entrance of it. No bait of any kind is needed.

For the skunk, I would advise the trapper not to attach his traps to a permanent fastening—a stake. Use a drag or clog—they mean practically the same thing nowadays. By a drag or clog I mean, a heavy object, not light enough for the animal to drag any great distance. Of course it should be so that the fur bearer cannot get with it into a hole.

Secure a dead chicken and stake it in some dense brush. Surround the bait with several traps. With this set I have taken as many as three skunks in a single place during a night.

Place two logs so that they form a V shaped pen. Back of the trap place a piece of meat over which some Funsten Skunk Bait has been sprinkled.

Meat hung in bushes will also prove a good "draw" for either of the animals. Almost directly under it place one or more traps.

Dig a small excavation in the earth about 40 inches deep. In the back part of this place a carcass of a muskrat. Cover one or more traps at the entrance to the pocket. This set will always bring good results.

Traps can be used to good advantage in trapping animals.

A successful way to kill both animals is by shooting them just back of the head, so that the bullet will cut the backbone. When this is done they cannot eject their fluid.

Gasoline will remove scent from the clothing or pelts. The Black skunk is the most valuable. The Short Stripe next; the Narrow Stripe, frequently called Long Stripe, third; while the Broad Stripe is fourth. Usually, a Black skunk is one which has the white not extending beyond the shoulders; a Short Stripe not extending past the hip; a Narrow Stripe one which has a narrow white stripe extending all the way down the pelt; Broad Stripe, one which has a broad white stripe extending all the way down the pelt.

Both the skunk and the civet should be bled, flesh side out. Remember, all pelts should be dried in a cool place, never over a fire or in the sun. Do not use salt on furs intended for market. Remove all meat, fat, etc., from every pelt.—Maine Woods.

Lukewarm Water.

Often times a recipe calls for tepid or lukewarm liquid. It is often difficult to know when just this temperature is reached unless one has a thermometer or some rule to go by. A good rule for determining just the degree of heat to have a cupful of lukewarm water take one-third of a cup of boiling water and add to it two-thirds of a cupful of cold water. Then you will have a cupful of water just the desired temperature. The same rule holds with milk and other liquids.

The estimated apple crop of Maine for 1911 is 975,000 barrels, or 3,000,000 bushels, according to figures compiled from a reliable source.

Care of Table Silver.

There are easy ways of cleaning silver, far simpler than that customary old way which involved the use of rather messy powder, any number of cloths, some hours of time and a great deal of "elbow grease."

First, as to the actual washing. Get a splint grape basket and put all the silver in it. Set it in the dishpan, run hot water over it. Make a good suds with soap or powder, use a dish mop to clean it so as not to soil your hands. Rinse it in the same basket; then lift out the basket, drain and dry as usual.

Now comes my chief point. Have close at hand, in a draw or on a shelf, all your silver cleaning paraphernalia—soap, powder and paste, brush, cloths and ammonia. What a simple matter to polish up all the silver to its normal brightness here and now before putting away. Do a little after each morning's dish washing, and use all your silver in rotation, and your weekly silver cleaning bugbear has disappeared. It doesn't have to be "cleaned"—it just stays clean.

However, if this way does not appeal to everybody, there are other expedients. Did you ever try boiling your silver and see how the Turkish bath affects it? Do it in your largest aluminum kettle—no other will answer. Or, put it all into a large, shallow pan and sprinkle it with soda. Let it stand, without boiling until cool enough to allow you to handle the silver. Then take it out, one piece at a time and wipe dry. A third way is to use one tablespoonful of ammonia.
